Bruce A. Rukkila, CPA, PC Receives Highest Rating

Bruce A. Rukkila, CPA, PC, Western Upper Peninsula's full-service accounting firm, received the highest possible rating of pass in its December peer review. This validates that the firm has met predetermined professional standards and is providing high-quality accounting services.

The efforts of Rukkila and his team are to assist clients in planning ahead, moving ahead, and staying ahead. "We go the extra mile here to assure that our clients are receiving exceptional accounting services. Public accounting firms are most valuable when offering a wide range of services. We equip our staff with additional training and certifications, as well as continue to make investments in new technologies to assure we're able to provide the best service we possibly can," says Bruce Rukkila, the firm's owner.

CPA firms that are members of the American Institution of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA) are required by the AICPA to undergo peer reviews to evaluate their accounting practices. The reviews take place once every three years and are meant to verify compliance with a system of quality control. Reviewers examine professional standards in the areas of: independence, integrity, objectivity, personnel management, acceptance and continuance of engagements, engagement performance, and firm quality monitoring.

Peer reviews are performed by CPA firms that have, themselves, met all State and Federal requirements. The firm of Dennis, Gartland & Neirgarth from Traverse City, Michigan conducted Bruce A. Rukkila, CPA, PC's peer review in December. Examining the system for quality control, Gartland & Neirgarth found that Rukkila's firm met and in some areas surpassed expectations.

The success of any business is directly proportional to the effort spent in developing it. Rukkila and his team at Bruce A. Rukkila, CPA, PC are dedicated to offering their clients superior advice and service. The result of this peer review is evidence that every effort of Bruce A Rukkila, CPA, PC is being met with success.
